

Contents

Preface. Building a sustainable social legacy, by Andrea Ruckstuhl	7
Introduction	9
1. The Programmatic Framework	13
1.1 Work for prisoners as an instrument of security and social reintegration, by Giovanna Di Rosa	13
1.2 Active labor policies to foster the employability of prisoners, by Anna Chiara Giorio	16
1.3 The Public-Private Partnership, by Vincenzo Lo Cascio	21
2. Programma 2121 and the international experience of the reintegration projects	25
2.1 Programma 2121 Agreement: objectives, actors involved and roles of the public-private partnership	25
2.2 Enhancing sustainability and scalability in re-entry programs for inmates. Insights from the Italian project Programma 2121, by Filippo Giordano	34
3. Feedback from key stakeholders	83
3.1 Diversity and Inclusion to create communities more resilient, by Chiara Pennasi	83
3.2 Dialogue between a Prison and a Multinational company: Operational Changes and Intercultural Interactions, by Roberto Bezzi	86
3.3 The signing of the "Social Clause": Impact, opportunities and added value to a work team, by Anita Novelli	91
3.4 Feedback from the trainees of Programma 2121	95
3.5 The testimonials from the motivation letters prepared for the job interviews and a virtuous example from a participating company	102

4. The process and the results of the first three-year period	105
4.1 Considerations from the operational processes of the first three-year period	105
4.2 The impact of the first cycle	112
4.3 The social value created	113
5. Next steps
5.1 Prisoners, mental health, and cognitive disability: Implications for post-release employment programs, by Anna Eriksson	119
5.2 Innovative financial instruments for growth and sustainability, by Filippo Addarii	126
6. Conclusions	135
References	137
Acknowledgements	151