

Table of Contents

Preface by Derrick de Kerckhove	VII
Introduction	1
1 Sociology of Music	5
1.1 Art, music, and creativity	5
1.2 Sociological theories	9
1.3 Cultural industry and technical reproducibility of the work of art	13
1.4 On popular music	15
1.5 Urban cultures and art worlds	20
1.6 Distinction: A social critique of the judgement of taste	25
2 Popular Music, Urban Rhythms, and Mass Cultures	33
2.1 Pop Music	33
2.2 Songwriting and its evolution	37
2.3 Pop Culture, mass media, and urban rhythms	42
2.4 Sound technologies	47
2.5 Social role of the radio and re-tribalisation processes	49
2.6 Video clip, walkman, and personalisation of listening	57
3 Bit culture, Sound, and Digital Technologies	64
3.1 Liquid sounds	64
3.2 Network, file sharing, and cross-media	68
3.3 Telephone and media convergence	73
3.4 Software culture and connective thinking	77
3.5 Sounds, connections, and innovations	85
3.6 Creativity and interactivity	89
4 Youth Cultures and the Social Role of Pop Stars	95
4.1 Young people as a social category	95
4.2 Cultural studies and youth subcultures	98

4.3 Youth, rap, and change	101
4.4 Bit Generation	107
4.5 Symbolic power of the rock star	113
Afterword. The Time of Emotion by Luciano Ligabue	121
References	127